Description of IANLP

What is NLP?

Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP) is a set of techniques for quickly and effectively altering patterns of thought, behavior, and language. Founded in the 1970's by Richard Bandler and John Grinder, NLP provides you with specific, learnable skills which can show you how to improve your level of performance, resolve sources of tension, overcome your limitations, and achieve new levels of competence, in virtually any area of your life. NLP techniques have been successfully applied in a wide number of contexts, such as business, education, mental health, medicine, sports, and communication.

IANLP History

The International Association of Neuro-Linguistic Programming (IANLP) was established as the National Association of Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NANLP) in 1983 to serve as a conduit through which professionals using NLP techniques could share experiences, discoveries, and applications from the field.

It is a not-for-profit organization which was chartered in the State of New York, and is headquartered in Indianapolis, Indiana, U.S.A. The association's name was changed from National to INTERNATIONAL in April 1991, which better reflects the association's usefulness to an international mix of members. The network provides a worldwide forum for ideas and learning from countries such as the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Italy, Puerto Rico, Brazil, Austria, Germany, Belgium, South Africa, Australia, plus more. The IANLP proudly represents an international base of over 1,000 members. From the first conference in 1984 and the first publication in 1985, IANLP maintains a tradition of continuing education for an international array of professionals from fields such as: counseling, human resource development, psychotherapy, ministries, law, education, medicine, professional development, sales and marketing.

IANLP Vision

It is the vision of IANLP members to foster professional development, to increase local, national and international networking opportunities, to encourage the discovery and verification of NLP techniques and applications, to expand the worldwide network in a meaningful way, to broaden the professional diversity of the members, to increase the influence of the association and the communication technology it represents, and to provide a process for the exchange of NLP resources.

IANLP Mission

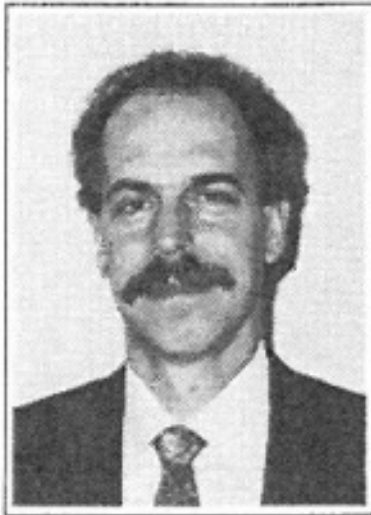

The mission of IANLP is to be a professional organization that develops and promotes mutuality, quality and ethics in the development, training and application of NLP.

Address information in this Membership Directory reflects the most current data available as of August 15, 1992. Members are encouraged to keep the IANLP Office informed of any changes.

Dear Fellow Members of IANLP,

I have the pleasure and responsibility to welcome you to this, our directory. As I leafed through the last directory, preparing to write this letter, I was struck by how much we have grown in the past decade. IANLP was begun by a group of twenty-four people who wanted to create a forum for communication and the development of professional ideals for the NLP community. The names of those founding members are listed on one page of this directory; today we are an association of well over a thousand members.

When we began, we focused on what we had in common: our interest in NLP and an intention to make NLP a useful and used technology in our world. We struggled to come together, to create the ties that would strengthen us as a community. It is a measure of the success of that effort that we are now able to focus on our differences as well, to form Special Interest Sections that have differing agendas. You will find listings of the Special Interest Sections and their membership in this directory too.

In this directory, you will also find indications of the structure that we have grown over the years, structures that enable us to act in the world. The IANLP by-laws, organizational chart, officer's list, training guidelines and code of ethics are all here. These are in most cases still rudimentary tools that we can use in our efforts to contribute to the well-being of our communities. I encourage you to use these tools and to be part of their development; it is my guess that each of you reading this letter has opinions and ideas that could enhance our development as an association.

What you will not see here this year is a listing of affiliated groups: local chapters, state or provincial chapters, and national affiliated associations. It is my hope that next year's directory will include a number of local affiliates as well as some national associations that have chosen to join with IANLP to further support our worldwide NLP community.

Finally, the most important section of this directory is the listing of us, the members. The listing gives us the ability to connect with, to work and play with, to begin the process of developing ecological and mutual outcomes with one another. With this directory, we get to know who we are; I hope that that knowledge is useful and fun.

Douglas J. Sauber, M.Ed.
President, IANLP

Dear IANLP Member:

On behalf of the Membership Committee, I congratulate you on your decision to join or renew your membership in our Association.

Continuing with the improvements we introduced in last year's directory, we have included some new features in this edition. The organizational chart provides more information for quick reference and we have included a list of past presidents. The by-laws, guidelines and ethics located at the back of the directory have been approved by your Board of Directors and represent our current working model.

I also would like to thank those institutes that have placed an ad in this year's edition. It is through support like yours that we are able to provide the membership with this Directory.

We hope you will find this Directory a useful resource. If you have suggestions on how we might make it even more useful next year, I welcome your ideas.

Lyle D. Chubb, Chairperson
IANLP Membership Committee

Standing Committees

Legal/By-Laws Committee

This committee is charged with continued scrutiny, recommendations and updating of the by-laws of IANLP to expedite efficient, ecological board/association operation in meeting membership mandate. The committee further considers and facilitates appropriate action regarding matters of a legal nature brought to the attention of IANLP.

Legislative Action Committee

This committee serves as a centralized communication effort to preserve the freedom of the ethical use and training of NLP and its technology. Activities may include the investigation, recommendation of appropriate action and supportive operations in relation to proposed legislation brought to IANLP's attention that may impact our membership's interests in their respective states and communities.

Program Committee

This committee is charged with all activities related to the development, organization and presentation of the IANLP Annual International Conference. The conference provides an exciting, friendly atmosphere for networking while members strengthen skills and share knowledge. The committee may also provide guidance to support Regional Conferences and their success.

Section Descriptions & Listings

Under the listings, we have listed the Membership Sections in which the individual is enrolled. The abbreviations correspond to the following:

BOA	Business Organizational Applications
CA	Clinical Applications
MP	Modeling Performance
EA	Educational Applications
MA	Medical Applications
T_NLP	Training
RA	Research Applications

Business Organizational Applications

Overall goals for 1992-93:

1. Maintain a communications and networking channel for IANLP members interested in business applications of NLP.
2. Develop suggested guidelines for NLP business trainings.
3. Publish an annual collection of Business Applications of NLP and make the collections available to the IANLP membership at a nominal charge.
4. Maintain a liaison with the IANLP conference program committee to assure an adequate selection of excellent business-oriented conference presentations and presenters.

For further information about the Business Interest Group, contact Peggy Dean at 404-988-9186 or write to her at Peak Performance Corp., 1640-8 Powers Ferry Road, Suite 300, Marietta, GA 30067.

Clinical Applications

This section focuses on the use and development of NLP in the psychotherapeutic field.

Modeling Performance

NLP is an attitude and a methodology that leaves behind a trail of techniques. The methodology is called modeling. Modeling is the process of capturing, encoding, replicating and transferring expertise. Its aim is to improve human performance by transferring the skills of those who have already achieved a superior degree of competence in a given area. The Modeling/Performance Enhancement section serves as a forum for the sharing of knowledge and experience both on the process of modeling itself and on specific performance models. The section is eliciting articles for a newsletter on modeling. It also sponsors a modeling symposium at the annual conference.

Educational Applications

The IANLP Education Interest Group is striving to introduce NLP into the field of Education. We are doing this by: (1) sharing ways to be accepted into the schools to teach NLP to teachers and/or students; (2) sharing new teaching techniques we have discovered and found helpful; (3) encouraging documented studies which verify the impact of NLP techniques used with students; (4) encouraging the program committee of IANLP conferences to continue offering classes which are designed especially for educators.

We plan to accomplish the above goals by: (1) sharing ideas through our Education newsletter which we hope will be sent to Education members quarterly, and through "NLP Connection"; (2) having a half-day session followed by a "working" lunch at the conference in Orlando in 1992; (3) compiling a resource catalog of ideas, techniques having to do with teaching.

Medical Applications

This section focuses on the use and development of NLP in the area of Health and Medicine.

Training

The Training section of IANLP has as its mission the development and enhancement of NLP trainings and trainers, and the evaluation of criteria and guidelines for NLP trainings.

Research Applications

This section focuses on systematic, objective, and reproducible research into the basis and applications of the NLP model. While not overly scientific in its presentations, this section encourages NLP researchers to document and support their developments. This section has been instrumental in creating the NLP Research Database, responding to the criticisms brought against NLP by the National Research Council, and encouraging the evolution of bridges with other disciplines. Current projects include the development of a more standardized research model for NLP, the development of an interactive network within CompuServe, and encouraging training centers to use research activities as a fundamental component in their NLP trainings.

CODE OF ETHICS

Interpersonal Ecology

IANLP members will respect the dignity and worth of each individual. They will show respect for the integrity of others by responding to each person's unique resources and by appropriately recognizing and responding to the differences among people.

IANLP members will be responsible for using their NLP skills to increase people's knowledge, understanding, and welfare. While using their skills, IANLP members will make every effort to protect the well-being of those seeking their services. They will use their skills only for purposes consistent with positive mutual outcomes.

Personal Accountability

IANLP members will represent their own level of NLP skill, training, credentials, and areas of competence fully and accurately. They will discourage the use of NLP skills by any person unqualified to use them.

IANLP members will accept responsibility for their work and its consequences; they will be sure that their services are used appropriately.

IANLP members will make every effort to continue to expand the limits of their own models of the world, and to increase their competence through new learning.

Ethical Practices

An IANLP member will only make such statements and claims in representing his/her services that are true and accurate to the best of his/her information. No statement or claim will be made that gives false information about his/her services or about the services of those offering competitive services.

When providing services, IANLP members will present the nature and purpose of their approach in language which can be understood and evaluated by other people. They will openly and freely represent the nature of outcomes and techniques used in providing such services. Should it become reasonably clear that the recipient of services provided by an IANLP member is not benefiting, the IANLP member will terminate those services.

IANLP members will openly and freely represent the nature of conflicts of interest involving those for whom they provide services. IANLP members will avoid exploitative relationships with trainees, clients, subordinates, or others for whom they provide services.

Recognition of Current Limits

IANLP members will recognize the current limits of their personal competence and of the NLP techniques which they use. IANLP members will also recognize any other personal limitations and/or problems that might interfere with providing appropriate service to others. Where such limitations or problems are suspected they will seek feedback from others qualified to give it. IANLP members will not continue to provide service where their own limitations or problems would interfere.

Public Representation of NLP

IANLP members will act publicly in ways aimed to enhance rather than detract from the community's perception of NLP, its practitioners, or practices. Statements made by IANLP members to the public will provide balanced representations of the NLP model and its limits. Such statements will be aimed to inform the public about NLP and to assist the public in making informed decisions and choices.

While an IANLP member's personal standards and ethics are generally a private matter, the ethical standards of IANLP will take precedence insofar as they affect the public perception of NLP.

Respect for Other Professions

IANLP members will sufficiently understand the competencies of related fields to make appropriate referrals to other professions. IANLP members will show respect for professionals in related fields by learning and acknowledging their customary procedures when interacting with them.
