Firstname, Name of Assistant

[John Example]

Attestation of Assistance

Assistance is a training and learning time. It is not leading (conducting) trainings. Assistance means being present while an experienced FMT is leading the group. Assistance is modelling the FMT and the training design. During assistance an assisting person might lead the training for certain sequences, but the FMT must be present synchronously at the same time. Watching the assistant, being able to intervene (if needed) and to give feedback. Therefore, only those seminar periods in which a Fellow Member Trainer IANLP was present at the same time (synchronously) may be counted as assistance.

The undersigned Fellow Member Trainer IANLP confirms the completeness of the following assistance
